

Photos from the 2010 Clarke Prize Award Ceremony and Lecture

Dr. Jerald Schnoor of the University of Iowa was selected as the 2010 Clarke Prize recipient because of his leadership and impact on promoting the sustainable use of water.

Dr. Schnoor and his family at the Seventeenth Annual Clarke Prize Award Ceremony and Lecture, held on July 15, 2010, in Costa Mesa, CA.

Dr. Schnoor mingles with guests during the reception.

Dr. Schnoor received many proclamations and letters from esteemed peers such as university presidents, senators, and the Governors of California and Iowa.

Guests at the Clarke Prize Award Ceremony dinner.

Dr. Keri Hornbuckle of the University of Iowa, who nominated Dr. Schnoor for the Clarke Prize, provided introductions at the award ceremony.

Dr. Schnoor received the Clarke Prize medallion and check from Mrs. Joan Irvine Smith, patron of the award and daughter of Athalie Richardson Irvine Clarke.

Dr. Schnoor gave the annual Clarke Prize Lecture on "Water Sustainability in a Changing World."

The Clarke Prize Laureates: (front) Nancy Rabalais, George Tchobanoglous, Jerald Schnoor, and patron Mrs. Joan Irvine Smith; (second) Charles O'Melia, Bruce Logan, and Vernon Snoeyink; (third row) James Barnard, Walter Weber, and Joan Rose; (back row) Menachem Elimelech and Philip Singer.